From Fr Peter

On today's great feast, we pray especially for the children receiving first holy communion in the parish. Today also marks the return of distributing communion under both kinds and so begins a time in which special patience and awareness of those around us is required. Things will not go perfectly first time, nor all the time, but this is entirely human, and it will help greatly if we are mindful of:

-There is no obligation to receive communion from the chalice.
-If waiting to receive from the chalice, please make sure there is room behind you for those returning straight to their seats.
-Unless you require assistance, please take secure hold of the chalice yourself as it is given to you, responding with 'Amen'.
-It is regrettably not possible for ministers to bring chalices to those unable to come towards the sanctuary steps.
-Above all else, the way we receive communion reflects our love and faith in Jesus' eucharistic presence, so we renew a spirit of reverence and prayer as the Lord comes to meet us in His body and blood.
